T. REX
IN WEST
BETHEL

Last Thursday Kaiya Corriveau, 5, and her mom, Seneca, took advantage of one of the few snowfalls so far this year. They sculpted a large dinosaur in front of the Flat Road home of Seneca's grandparents, Rodney and Carol Jordan. Seneca said they decided to create the Tyrannosaurus Rex because Kaiya's kindergarten class has been studying dinosaurs in school. It took about eight hours to complete the project.

Small, but possibly touchy, changes proposed in W'stock

By ALISON ALOISIO

They may seem like small matters, but Woodstock selectmen are wondering if residents will have strong feelings about three proposed changes in the way some things are done in the town.

During the next holiday season, the board plans to light a different Christmas tree, instead of the one on the common that has been used for years.

The selectmen are also weighing whether to change the direction of travel on two town roads.

'Let's try it.

We can no more than get trounced.'

JUDY BENNETT
Selectman

At Tuesday's board meeting, selectman Judy Bennett suggested Woodstock light the evergreen in front of the Whitman Memorial Library.

The tradition has been to string lights on the 55-foot tree on the common. But because the tree has grown so tall, it now requires renting a $300 manlift to put lights all the way to the top.

This past season, selectman Bruce Korhonen strung the lights from a lift. "We couldn't reach the star from a fully-extended lift," he said.

Bennett suggested the town instead light the 30-foot tree

Trail to Iditarod began with summer hikes in Newry

By ALISON ALOISIO

On March 4, 88 hardy mushers and their teams will leave Anchorage, Alaska on the 1,150-mile Iditarod dog sled race. Among them will be Kim Kittredge, the grandson of Ruth and the late Herb Kittredge, formerly of Hanover.

In the 10 to 17 days the race can take, the teams may contend with mountain terrain, desolate tundra, below-zero temperatures and whiteout conditions.

What motivates mushers to undertake such a punishing marathon?

For Kittredge, who lives in Wasilla, Alaska, the desire to test himself against Mother Nature got its start in Newry.

He was born in Norway, while his parents were living in Bethel. When he was only a few months old, the family moved to Massachusetts.

As Kittredge was growing up, there continued to be a strong Maine connection. He reflected on his time in Maine in an e-mail to The Citizen:

"As a kid we used to spend most of our summer weekends camping, many of them at Lone Pine campground in Newry.

"I remember exploring the woods and hills around there from a very young age. My grandfather Herb loved to take us kids out fishing and exploring in the summer and winter. He loved to spend time in the 'woods' as he called it.

"Herb and my uncle Dick LeBlanc from Andover had a big impact on my life by sharing their love of the outdoors with me. I'm sure this all stems from being exposed to someone who loved the outdoors so much it was bound to rub off.

"As a teenager I started backpacking and going on some long-distance hiking trips. Some of my best memories are from hiking with friends in the White's and in the mountains from Gorham, N.H., to Rangeley.

"To this day my favorite section of trail anywhere is from Gorham to Grafton Notch via the Mahoosuc Notch.

"Some of my first climbing trips were winter trips into Baxter State Park to climb Ka-

Bill Koch festival in March will bring hundreds of young X-C skiers here

By ALISON ALOISIO

Bethel will welcome an estimated 2,000 people the weekend of March 3-5, when the Bethel Outing Club hosts the annual New England Bill Koch Ski Festival.

The festival bears the name of Olympian Bill Koch, a Vermont native who won a silver medal in cross-country skiing in 1976.

Taking part will be young skiers ages 4 to 13 from northern New England and Massachusetts. Around 500 kids and their families are expected.

The youngsters are members of local chapters of the Bill Koch Ski League. The league provides ski opportunities for kids and their families, with educational, recreational and competitive programs.

The festival will reflect the league's philosophy of providing both competitive and non-competitive events.

Bill Koch himself will attend, said organizer Beth Clarke of the BOA. But don't look for him to take a high-profile role, she said.

"He's a very low-key guy, for someone who used to be so competitive," said Clarke.

But, she said, he does sign autographs for children on request.

Bethel also hosted the festival eight years ago. It comes to Maine every fourth year.

Four years ago, it took place at Titcomb Mountain in Farmington.

The Bethel Inn and Gould Academy ski trails will be the primary sites for this year's activities.

Among the events are a festival parade, opening ceremony, classic and freestyle races, ski orienteering, dog-sledding, a candlelight ski at the Sunday River Inn and a pasta dinner at Gould.

Kids who take part in the after-school cross-country program at the Crescent Park, Andover and Woodstock schools will be able to participate in the festival. The Bethel Recreation Committee and the BOA each donated $250 so the kids can sign up for the events at no charge, Clarke said.

In addition, Telstar Middle School students may apply for scholarship funds to allow them to participate at a reduced fee. For more information, call 824-6276.

BOA needs approximately 90 volunteers to help run the festival. Anyone interested in helping out can contact her at 824-4692 or clarkeb@sad44.org.

More information on the festival can be found at www.billkochfestival.org 2006.

Grafton land top 'Legacy' priority in Bush budget

By MICHAEL DANIELS

Strong support from local individuals, businesses, and other groups is being credited with helping to make the acquisition of a 3,688-acre parcel of land in Grafton Notch the top Forest Legacy priority in President Bush's new budget.

Nationwide, 91 projects were submitted for funding, but only 31 were included in the budget proposal, which was released Monday.

And the Grafton Notch parcel was at the top of the list of 31, budgeted in at $2 million.

A second Maine project, the 42,537-acre Lower Penobscot Forest Project, east of Bangor, was ranked eleventh in the nation, and budgeted in for $2.2 million.

The Grafton Notch parcel descends to the southeast from the 4,180-foot crest of Old Speck Mountain, one of Maine's highest peaks.

The property offers plentiful opportunities for recreation, hunting, sustainable forestry, and protection of diverse forest and riparian habitats.

It is surrounded on three sides by Maine public reserve lands and Grafton Notch State Park, a popular tourist destination.

The parcel is also adjacent to the Mahoosuc Notch, one of the most rugged sections of the federally protected Appalachian Trail.

"The lands involved in these projects are among the most beautiful in Maine," Governor John Baldacci said, following the release of Bush's budget

Summer St. bar's license renewed for only six months

By MICHAEL DANIELS

The Funky Red Barn has a renewed liquor license and a new special amusement permit, but both are valid for only six-months, not the usual year.

Town selectmen voted unanimously Monday to approve the licenses, but also to limit them to six-months, and to schedule a public hearing at the end of that period to assess how well the bar is controlling its late-night noise.

The noise issue was brought to the board's attention in November, when Janet Willie, whose home abuts the Summer Street bar, complained of loud music, and of noise from patrons outside the establishment.

The problem, she said, had

Noise, crowd questions to be looked at again at public hearing in July.

grown worse since the bar changed owners in the spring of 2005.

"My experience of the previous owner was that the noise in the evening rarely disrupted my sleep, nor did it ever shake my windows," Willie wrote in a letter to the selectmen. "Come 1:05 a.m., the parking lot usually cleared out, doors shut, lights off. The noise and conflicts at the end of the evening seemed minimal in comparison.

Willie said she took the matter to the selectmen only after attempts to work with the bar staff, and later the Bethel Police Department, failed to resolve the situation.

House hit again by cars, twice in two days

ASSOCIATED PRESS

David Luxton of West Bethel awoke to the sound of shattering glass as a car smashed into his porch during the night. Less than 48 hours later, another car spun around and hit the porch, knocking it off its foundation.

All told, vehicles careening out of control on a dangerous curve on U.S. 2 have damaged Luxton's house four times since he moved there in 1975, he said. That doesn't include vehicles that ended up on his property but missed the house.

Luxton said he wasn't too concerned about the damage from the latest accidents Thursday night and Saturday morning.

He was more worried about one of the victims, Kevin O'Connor of South Paris, who was injured in the Friday night crash, remained in critical condition Sunday at the Central Maine Medical Center in Lewiston, a nursing supervisor said.

"I'm more concerned about that guy than what I've got to do. I hope that guy's all right," Luxton said. "You can hammer nails and wood up, but broken bones and smashed bodies don't mend as well."

The stretch of U.S. 2 is dangerous because motorists coming from New Hampshire are traveling downhill when they enter the curve. If they're traveling too fast or if they take their eyes off the road, they may end up spinning.

Letters

NOT SPEAKING FOR ME

To the Editor:

The letter from Mr. John Head published in the Feb. 2, 2006 edition of the Bethel Citizen asserts to be "for the Bethel Water District Board of Trustees."

This was not the case. Prior to submission, Mr. Head had distributed, only, the Al Hodson letter for review. I found that letter to accurately relate the conversation, and rationale discussed, that we had with Mr. Hodson last fall when we did ask him to proceed with submission of the application to the revolving loan fund for eligibility assessment.

The text of Mr. Head's personal and reprehensible rant was not included with the copy of the Hodson letter submitted for my review.

In these times of increasing interdependence of all public agencies to provide sustainable service at affordable cost, it is embarrassing to be associated with such a petty personal attack.

Let Mr. Head exercise his constitutional right to free speech. Let him find the courage and integrity to stand alone when he acts alone.

THANKS FOR THE GREAT PRIZES

To the Editor:

Lisa Parks and I cannot thank you enough for the great prize we received and the most wonderful time we had at Sunday River this weekend — it was a blast! The boardercross racing was very exciting and the food was great and all the people we met were so nice to us.

Not only did we win free skiing and access to all the parties, our winning did not stop there. Lisa, of Greenwood, was my guest and won two more Sunday River lift passes. I won the big prize of a Jeep hard-cover ski rack worth $500.

Thank you so much for the great prizes!

Iditarod

tahdin with my cousin Kevin Dunn and friends. I think we did three or four years in a row.

"These trips really got me hooked on climbing. It was probably because of this I decided that I needed to live closer to big mountains."

To Alaska

In 1992, after earning a business degree and serving for six years in the National Guard, Kittredge fulfilled his need for more rugged terrain. He moved to Alaska, where he now works as a network engineer for a telephone company.

He wasted little time in taking advantage of his surroundings. He has climbed Mt. Denali three times, and has competed in foot and cycling races.

In 2003 he began helping a friend prepare her dog team for the 2004 Iditarod. Since then, they have become kennel partners and have built a racing kennel, leading Kittredge to decide to enter the race himself this year.

"Many of my friends think my idea of fun is a bit 'off,'" Kittredge wrote. "Luckily I have a very bad memory for things painful and uncomfortable. That is the only reason I can come up with for continuing to participate in multi-day races, mountaineering expeditions and now the Iditarod."

"It's really hard to explain, but I've always enjoyed challenging myself. The more you participate, you start to realize that these things aren't really that bad. They are more mental than physical challenges. This is good, because physically I'm a very average person, just determined I guess."

"When you live in Alaska you are exposed to all kinds of strange sporting events that will test you both physically and mentally. Once I hear someone say how hard something was, I have to go find out for myself just to see what their definition of hard is."

The training regimen
"Training for the March 4 race start begins seven months prior. I started training 21 dogs to choose my starting 16 from."

"We start running the dogs with an ATV on very short

TEAMMATES—Kim Kittredge with two of his dogs

one-to-two-mile runs. I usually run 14 dogs at a time on a two-day on, one-day off rotation. These early season runs are generally done in the coolest part of the day — 5 or 6 a.m. As fall progresses we switch to evening runs.

"The dry-land training is really good for building muscle mass in the dogs. The miles gradually increase until we are up to 20-25 miles runs with the four-wheeler. It usually works out that there is snow on the ground and the sleds can come out of the shed around the first of November."

"The sleds mean faster and more fun runs. This is when we are able to stretch the dogs out to longer and faster runs. "My combined training miles on each dog from Aug. 1 to Dec. 1 were roughly 600 miles. On the first of January we had about 1,200."

"In December, the training runs are up to 40-plus miles, still on the two-on, one-off rotation."

"This makes for a long day, since I don't start until after work at about 4:30 or 5 p.m. After feeding the dogs, I'm usually back home by 10:30 p.m. for a quick dinner and off to bed to do it again the next day."

Needless to say, I use a lot of headlamp batteries.

"January is the month for mid-distance (200-300 mile) races. This is great practice for the dogs and to help you determine who will go on Iditarod. It gives you a chance to test young dogs and help them learn to rest and run on a race schedule. Generally for distance racing, a good rule is equal run, equal rest. A six-hour run is followed by a six-hour rest."

"February is time to decrease the miles a little, and prepare food and equipment for the big race. On Feb. 15 I have to deliver all of my supplies for each checkpoint to the air transport company."

"I expect to have almost 2,000 pounds for dog food and other supplies to send out. The mileage for this trip is equal to Miami-New York City, and these dogs can go through as much as 10,000 calories per day."

Dangers

Kittredge also described the toughest parts of the trail, and his strategy for running his dogs:

"My biggest concern going into this race is a couple of notorious sections of trail. The Happy River Step and the Dalzell Gorge. These are the most technically challenging sections of trail."

"The steps are a series of switchbacks that lead down hill to the Happy River. There are several 90-plus degree turns down to the river."

"The Dalzell Gorge always has sections of open water. You have to drive your team through a tight river canyon while zig-zagging around these open holes in the river."

Once the race starts, Kittredge will employ the six-hours-run, six-hours-rest schedule.

"My plan is to travel this way as long as the dogs are doing fine with the schedule. Then in Unalakleet (300 miles from Nome), I'll start to cut back on the rest a little if everything is going well."

For more on the race, or to track Kittredge's progress, go to www.iditarod.com, www.cabelasiditarod.com, or www.k2racing.org.

License

conceded Willie had a point.

The town's Entertainment Ordinance, he told the selectmen in November, was out of date and seldom, if ever, enforced.

And, he noted, licensed liquor establishments that offer live entertainment were not being required to have a special amusement permit — as is required by the Entertainment Ordinance.

"Myself, my predecessors, we've all failed to administer the code the right way," he told the board.

The selectmen decided then to form an ad hoc committee to look into the larger Entertainment Ordinance question — but two rounds of advertisements for committee members produced not a single volunteer.

So matters stood until Monday evening's selectmen's meeting, which was preceded by a public hearing on the bar's application to renew its liquor license and for a special amusements permit.

Both Willie and Mark Egeberg, another abutter, told selectmen that noise from the bar's musical fare was now less of a nuisance, but there is still a problem with patrons outside the bar.

Not only could crowds in the parking lot be noisy, Willie and Egeberg said, but patrons going to or from the bar were frequently crossing abutters' properties.

Bar owner Barry Hallett Jr. questioned how often this actually occurred.

"If you told me you saw 10 people, 12 people a weekend, I could see that being a nuisance. I can't imagine more than one person has walked through your yard in the last 30 days."

But Cole said that during an hour he spent observing activities in the parking lot, he saw a half dozen bar patrons walking across abutters' properties.

The bar, Cole said, "is a magnet. That's not a bad thing. That's what bars do: they draw people."

The selectmen discussed various options for addressing this problem, including requiring Hallett to put up an eight-foot tall stockade fence around the property line.

But such a fence would be expensive, and Hallett said improvements he was already making to the business had stretched his budget.

"I'm basically out of money," he told the selectmen. Selectman Don Bennett suggested "no trespassing" signs at the property's edge.

Cole, however, was skeptical. "Signs are not going to do anything," he said. "If the objective is to keep people from walking out in any other direction than onto a public street, you're going to have to put a fence up."

Board Chairman Stan Howe expressed frustration with the choices facing the board.

"We have options," he said, "but not good options."

Howe suggested postponing a decision on the licenses until the next selectmen's meeting, but in the end the board agreed to approve the six-month permits, and to hold another public hearing in July.

The selectmen expressed the hope that during the six-month period Hallett and his neighbors could work together to come up with a mutually agreeable solution to the currently perceived problems.

Committee steps forward
There was at least one more tangible result from Monday's public hearing.

Following the hearing, Willie, Egeberg, and Hallett agreed to serve on the ad hoc Entertainment Ordinance Committee.

They were joined by Bill White and Richard Dennen, who also attended the hearing.

The committee is expected to focus its work on two aspects of the ordinance, Cole said: the decibel-level limits, and the requirement that a town-approved constable be on duty whenever 50 or more patrons are present.

Court upholds Dunican decision

PORTLAND — The Maine Supreme Court Tuesday upheld a lower court ruling awarding the former owners of Mt. Abram $1.5 million in damages from Camden National Bank. Camden foreclosed on Mt. Abram in 2000, two years after Randall and Kathleen Dunican bought it for $455,000. The Dunicans had missed loan payments while waiting for another loan promised by the bank. The latter loan was never approved, and the foreclosure came a month later.

Forum venue shifted

BETHEL — Due to anticipated interest, the location for the "Mahoosuc Initiative" meeting scheduled for this evening, Feb. 9, has been changed from the Moses Mason House to the Bethel Inn Conference Center, next door. The meeting will begin at 6:30 p.m., with cake and coffee, and will continue at 7 p.m. with a slide show and presentation by Randall Bennett on the history of land use in the Mahoosuc Mountain Region. The meeting is sponsored by the Bethel Historical Society, Bethel Area Chamber of Commerce, Northern White Mountain Chamber of Commerce, Mahoosuc Land Trust, and Androscoggin River Watershed Council. The public is invited to attend.

Change proposed for The Peaks

NEWRY — The Newry Planning Board is considering a proposed modification to The Peaks subdivision, located on the Sunday River side of Mt. Will. The application for the 58-lot subdivision was approved last year. Developers now want to subdivide several large lots near the top of the mountain. The original approval allowed for the lots to be subdivided after five years. The board will further consider the proposed modification at its Feb. 15 meeting. Notices have been sent to abutters, and the board will allow time for public comment.

Town budget work scheduled

NEWRY — The Board of Selectmen will meet Monday at 7 p.m. at the Town Office to finalize work on the 2006 municipal budget. The annual Town Meeting is scheduled for March 6.

Ice sled fundraiser reaches goal

WOODSTOCK — The Woodstock Fire Department has more than exceeded its goal of raising $6,000 to purchase an ice rescue sled, according to Chief Jeff Inman. The sled allows firefighters to safely go out onto thin ice to rescue people who have fallen through. The new sled has been ordered, and is expected to arrive this weekend, Inman said. The department plans to start training with it on Sunday, near Johnny's Bridge on North Pond.

Make reservations with Sopranos

BETHEL — Dinner with The Sopranos, a series of fundraisers to benefit the Telstar Football Boosters, begins Sunday, Feb. 12. The Gideon Hastings House will serve an "Italian Feast" with recipes from The Sopranos Cookbook. The feast will include soup, salad, antipasto appetizers, choice of pasta, choice of entrée, dessert, coffee and more. Adults $25, Children (12 and under) $12.50. All proceeds from the meal and gratuity will benefit the future football players of SAD44, and is tax deductible. Reservations may be made for the following dates: Feb. 12, 13, 16, or 18, at 824-3496, or e-mail gideon@megalink.net.

Grafton

proposal. "The Grafton Notch area has a rich recreation tradition, from hunting and hiking to skiing and snowmobiling."

Local support

Three key elements probably contributed to the parcel's high ranking on the federal acquisition list, according to Sam Hodder, senior projects manager for the national Trust for Public Lands.

The parcel is "outstandingly scenic," it is threatened by nearby development, and its acquisition has been strongly supported by the local community, Hodder said.

Individuals, business owners, local officials and representatives of recreation and conservation groups wrote in support of the project.

And Steve Wight, chairman of the Newry Board of Selectmen, flew to Washington, D.C. in December, to meet with Mark Rey, undersecretary of natural resources at the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

Rey oversees the U.S. Forest Service, which administers the Forest Legacy program.

Not a done deal

But despite that strong local support, acquisition of the Grafton Notch parcel is not yet assured.

Bush's budget proposal is just that, a proposal. All the items in it must now survive the congressional budget process.

All four members of the Maine congressional delegation have expressed strong support for the project.

"The state of Maine and partner organizations like the Trust for Public Land and The Nature Conservancy continue to create some of the strongest conservation projects in the country," said Second District Representative Mike Michaud.

Other members of the delegation expressed similar sentiments.

"Grafton Notch State Park contains some of the most beautiful and majestic hiking opportunities that Maine has to offer," said Senator Olympia Snowe.

"Along with recreational opportunities, it also protects diverse habitats, permits the practice of sustainable forestry, and contributes greatly to the local economy."

State funding also needed

Even if the $2 million proposed for the acquisition makes it into the final federal budget, additional funds will be needed to complete the purchase.

The Trust for Public Lands has applied for an additional $1 million from the Land for Maine's Future program.

A decision on that funding is expected sometime this summer.

If the land is purchased, it would probably be added to the approximately 30,000 adjacent acres of public reserve lands, and be managed by the state Department of Conservation.

House

The cars some times spin toward his house on the inside of the curve; large trucks tend to crash into the guardrail and topple over, away from the house, he noted.

Over the years, those have included a tractor-trailer loaded with beer, several logging trucks, and a car carrier loaded with pickup trucks.

There has been only one fatal accident. In December 2004, it was Luxton who discovered that a car driven by a college student returning from Vermont had crashed and landed upside down on a frozen river on the other side of Route 2.

The Maine Department of Transportation plans to move the highway 60 feet farther from the house and reshape the curve this summer, he said.

But Luxton will keep the porch, just to be safe. "In a way, it's my safety barrier," he said.

Chief: hazardous driving conditions still ahead

By ALISON ALOISIO

The mild winter to date may be making drivers complacent, putting them at greater risk for accidents, according to Bethel Police Chief Alan Carr.

"People may not be geared up to the winter mindset because of the warm temperatures and lack of snow," he said.

But there have been — and will likely continue to be — hazardous driving conditions on area roads.

Drivers are reminded to approach stop signs more slowly in snowy or icy conditions.

"If they feel themselves starting to slide, put the car in neutral and brake gently," Carr said.

And even though drivers may be traveling the speed limit on the roads, it may be too fast for snowy or icy conditions. In such cases, obeying the posted limit can cause an accident, or lead to a speeding ticket.

A rule of thumb, said Carr, is to slow down 5 to 10 mph below the limit.

Frost heaves from the unusually warm winter also pose a hazard because they, too, can cause drivers traveling too fast for such conditions to lose control.

Final reminders: watch for shady spots on roads (ice melts more slowly); watch for black ice, common with recent daytime rains followed by colder evenings; and before driving, thoroughly clear snowy or icy windshields, "not just one spot," said Carr.

The warm January has put winter sports on hold up here. Snowmobiling is out of the question due to the lack of the white stuff. Larry Nelson has looked forward to his annual long snowmobile ride into New Hampshire. The trip usually takes four to five days to complete. Due to conditions beyond their control his companions and brothers-in-law were forced to remain indoors and make it an annual cribbage tournament instead. On the "Q-T" — I think it was high-stakes poker.

The Red Hatters "Naughty but Nice" ladies have again held a card party at the Errol Town Hall. It was so much fun they decided to do it again.

Roger Lavalley is now a patient at the Rumford Hospital. CMMC was just too much travel for his family.

Usually Errol, N.H., hosts many snowmobiles at this time of year, but the silence at the gas pumps was very noticeable. It really hurts business at this time of year, when it should be near peak.

The road to Errol is breaking up early this year. The lumps, bumps and potholes make it a very slow drive.

Ginny Williamson visited her villa in Florida. Constant rain has caused terrible floodings. Ginny's place is beside Lake Wales, which only makes the problem worse.

The article on the Newry Church, in The Citizen, was very interesting. It is a beautiful little building. The sun shines on the stained-glass windows creating a very pretty appearance. It also speaks of history and the many Newry people who worshiped there in the past.

A Super Bowl Party was held at the Nelsons on Sunday night. About a dozen people attended and had a great time. Huge grinders were purchased from the seventh and eighth graders of the Errol School. The money will be used to assist their trip to Washington.

Melvina Cummings' aunt, Marion

Learned Thurston, fell and broke her hip recently while at her daughter's home on the Roxbury North Road where she had been living. She is now at Ledgeview Living Center. Her hip repairing was done in Lewiston. Her spirits are good and she is receiving therapy while at Ledgeview. Best wishes for a speedy recovery to Marion.

Gilberte Seeley sent me a note saying Sis Post observed her 98th birthday on Jan. 7 at Shelburne Bay where she is living. She invited many of the friends who live there to a party. She did all of the preparations of the food that she served. Sis had a good time but was a little tired after the event. She misses those of us who used to go to Town and Country for dinner or just in getting together with her Newry friends at the many town events.

We say Special Birthday Greetings to Sis Post and Marion Thurston.

On Sunday, I called Sylvia Wight at Ledgeview. She is no longer in the apartment. When I called the facility I couldn't reach her. She was probably out visiting with friends at the home. The number where you may reach her at Ledgeview is 674-2250.

Just when we received enough snow to work the WVSC's trails for trail preparedness, it decides to snow and rain; with a predominance of rain on Friday.

Early this week I watched a squirrel climb atop the dome that covers a feeder at the corner of the deck. It decided to go around to the side at which time I thought: you'd better come back because if you slip you are going to plunge straight down to the ground, which is exactly what it did.

The WVSC will hold an Oyster Stew, Spaghetti Supper along with delicious desserts at Bear River Grange Hall on Saturday, Feb. 11. The supper starts at 5 p.m. The price is $7 for adults. There is no fee for those 12 and under. In years past a snowmobile ride usually preceded the supper. But, unless we get lots of snow between today and Saturday, it will just be a supper and social event. Bob Lowell, the treasurer, will also be selling 50/50 raffle tickets. So gather together, dine and visit friends, just maybe you'll go home with a few more dollars than you entered with.

Andover

by Melinda Averill

Hello everyone. I don't have much news this week so it will be quite a short column.

Get well wishes to Edna White of East Andover.

Sue, Abby and Katie Mills traveled to Augusta last weekend to watch the Cheering Competition at the Civic Center. Sue's niece, Ashley, was cheering for Old Orchard Beach High School, where she is a senior.

Happy birthday wishes to Cassidy Smith on Monday, Feb. 13. Happy first birthday to Emma Clukey on Feb. 15.

Last Friday, the Andover Eagles basketball team played at home against Crescent Park School.

Even though the weather was snowy, quite a few spectators were on hand for support for both teams. Andover prevailed 66-44.

On Wednesday, Peggy, Mom and I went to Norway. While there we ate lunch at the Maurice Restaurant in South Paris.

Get well wishes to Violet Swain.

On Monday, Peggy Madigan and Dottie Mills went to Auburn and then to Freeport to L.L. Bean.

That's it for this week. Have a nice weekend.

Gilead

by Lin Chapman

I am writing this column on Sunday and it certainly has been an interesting day as far as the weather goes. I heard it raining around 3 a.m. and that continued most of the morning. Later in the day, the rain stopped and fog rolled in, but that soon disappeared. The afternoon has been rain with several breaks with blue sky and sunshine with temperatures in the low 40s. I was talking with my brother, Steve McLain, and we decided that this was certainly not a typical February day. He was pleased that most of the mess left by the recent storm in his driveway has melted away.

Sympathy goes out to the family of Margaret Belanger, who was a resident of Bethel for many years. Her daughter and husband, Luella and Dan Cole, live in Gilead. Luella, who is in Texas for the winter with her daughter, Kelly, has come home for a few days to be with the family. Kelly will be coming home also.

I would also like to send condolences out to the family of Juliette Morin, who passed away last week. She was a long-time resident of the town of Gilead.

Gilead Historical Society
The following is a rerun of the notice in the column a couple of weeks ago; as a reminder of the meeting to be held this Saturday, Feb. 11.

"Recently the IRS notified us, that in order to comply with their regulations and be recognized as tax exempt, we need to add two paragraphs to our constitution. They basically agree to comply with IRS regulations for nonprofits, and not attempt to affect elections or political campaigns. Our bylaws require that any member be allowed to vote on such an amendment, so any interested members are invited to a meeting, the purpose of which is to vote on these amendments, to be held at Lin Chapman's house on Saturday, Feb. 11 at 4 p.m. If anyone has any questions they can call Bill Tout at 836-2900 or contact Lin at 836-2987."

Recently, a man from Mexico, Maine by the name of Gary Coffin stopped by to inquire about the history books that were published by the Gilead Bicentennial Committee and are now being sold by the GHS. He is a descendant of Frank Coffin, who owned Coffin's Store in Gilead. He gave us a brief history of his family, and will share information that he has about his grandfather, Frank B. Coffin.

Just a brief bit of Gilead history from "The Smile of Providence, A History of Gilead, Maine."

"The early general store was an important institution in Gilead. It was a meeting place to socialize, conduct business, and catch up on the news and political happenings. Also, the store was a place to barter farm produce for those items that could not be grown on the farm. If money was needed, the general store owner acted as banker and would loan money against very strong collateral, like a woodlot.

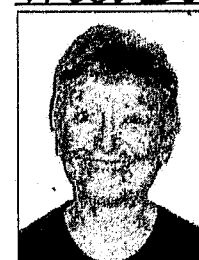

"It appears the Gilead mill owners ran general stores and boarding houses, as well as mills. Looking at the mill owner's daily store journals, it appears the mill employees were allowed to charge items until payday. Usually, the post office was in one of the general stores of the correct political party. With the appearance of the automobile, most of the general stores in Gilead had gas pumps out front. When the telephone came along, it was at the general store. The first and only one for a while was at Coffin's General Store, next to Town Hall."

Don't forget to check out the Gilead information on the website for the Bethel Historical Society: www.bethelhistorical.org.

Talk about a rude awakening! Debbie and David Luxton had the mother of all awakenings at about 2 a.m. late last week when an auto crashed into their front porch, doing considerable damage to said porch and critically injuring the driver. And just in case the Luxtons might be lulled into a sense of complacency, another driver crashed into that same porch early Saturday morning, doing yet more damage, but fortunately leaving the driver in much better shape than the previous one. Add this to all the other accidents that have happened at that same spot, and I think the Luxtons deserve a medal for their perseverance. The road improvements can't happen soon enough.

At least the sun is shining again. And there was some very good cross-country skiing last week at the Bethel Inn after a couple of modest snowfalls.

However, it is a sorry landscape out there after the weekend monsoons, which have left the "skinny ski" areas nearly devoid of coverage. But this just separates the men from the boys, so to speak. The organizers had to change the venue from the Gould trails to Telstar and engage in some judicious shoveling, but the annual Flying Moose Classic Ski Race took place on Sunday, Feb. 5, in spite of continuing rain and drizzle, with 25 or more die-hard skiers participating, and several youngsters as well. Bethel skier Kirk Siegel came in second among the men, and Brad Clarke, fifth. I expect that all the skiers were a bit damp by the end of the race. The Flying Moose was just about the only race that wasn't canceled in New England that weekend.

My sources tell me that the West Bethel Country Store is, or is soon to be, a bottle redemption center. Now that is a welcome convenience for all of us recyclers, making for one less trip to Bethel in this time of outrageous gas prices.

On Sunday we piled into our Boston family's van, and six of us drove to Farmington to see a youth production of "Godspell," produced and co-directed by our oldest daughter, Cyndy Stancioff, at the UCC church there. As a devoted grandmother, I must tell you that our granddaughters, Elisabeth and Louisa Stancioff, sang and acted beautifully. But kinship aside, the whole show was outstanding, and all the participants did themselves proud. Several of us were moved to tears by this touching musical treatment of the gospel of Matthew. The Siegel and Goldberg families of Bethel were also in attendance, along with about 200 others in the audience.

I'm just a little tired of spring in January (and now February), and truly would like to see some real winter weather for a change. It would certainly be good for local businesses to have some of the white stuff this area is famous for.

Don't be shy. Give me a call or drop me a line with news of what's going on your world. 836-3011; dhoeh@megalink.net.

East Stoneham

Hi everyone. Here it is February already. Sharon Berman from Belmont, Mass., was here last Saturday to visit us and she helped me a lot around the house doing several projects and this week Cheryl Barnard from Seaford, Va., has been here to visit and I had several projects lined up for her to do for us. I put them right to work.

Albert went to Stephens Memorial Hospital last Tuesday for day surgery and they kept him overnight. Our son, Albert, Jr., Cheryl and I brought him home the following day. He is doing OK. The Androscoggin Home Health nurses check on him each week. They are a big help.

Last Saturday, Sharon and I went up and visited Loretta Andrews who is at home now. She has nurses come in to help her, too. We had a nice visit and I am glad that you are at home now, Loretta. She made me ashamed of myself. There she is in a wheelchair and she had just made a cake and cupcakes. I had not made one for a while so I came right home and made one for Albert (but, I did have a little piece of it).

Eloise Vail is now back in Norway Rehab. and Living Center and doing better.

We just got word that Caprice and Chris Littlefield have a new baby girl born on Jan. 26 at Stephens Memorial Hospital in Norway. Her name is Elizabeth Ray and she weighed 6 pounds, 12 ounces. Congratulations Caprice and Chris and family and welcome to little Elizabeth.

I do not think the groundhog saw his shadow today, Feb. 2. That means a short winter, right? That is all right by me. We can handle that.

Hanover

by Clem Worcester

Hanover residents lost a good neighbor last week with the death of Walter Sylvester. Although he had not been staying at his home in Hanover when he died, we all remember his creative lawn designs. Walter and his wife, Myrtle, lived at Main Street in Hanover. Myrtle passed away last fall. Sympathy is extended to their very large family.

Former Hanover resident Keith Bedell, now of New Hampshire, has been in town making repairs to his house on the Howard Pond Road. He is making preparations to sell the property.

Warm and sometimes rainy weather continued last week. That contributed to the increasing number of frost heaves showing up on local roads. The ice went out of the Androscoggin River through Hanover Village Saturday.

In Knights of Pythias news, area residents traveled to Brunswick to attend a meeting on Feb. 5. That included Craig Turner, Freeman Farmington, Danny and Janice Bennett and Donna and Clem Worcester.

members present. A potluck dinner was held and Town Manager Vern Maxfield was the speaker. The next meeting in March is at Ledgeview with a speaker from the forest department, Leslie Rouse. South Woodstock

by Andrea Wing
I had the pleasure of talking with Marcelene McKeen at the grocery store last week. I hadn't seen her for a long time. She is well and looks great. It was very enjoyable.

Also, the same day I visited with Margaret Berryment at the same grocery store. She lived in Bryant Pond most of her life and now lives in South Paris. I was glad I had a chance to visit and catch up on things.

Jessie Hart and baby Landon paid me a visit recently. He sure has grown in just a couple of weeks. He's a real cutie. Jessie also came over on Thursday to pick up her income tax forms that I had completed this week.

I was happy to see that Vern Maxfield was appointed as town manager of Woodstock for another year. He does a great job.

I was sorry to see that Jim Miclon was not going to run for sheriff this year.

Thanks to Rick Farnam for plowing the Union Church so that school buses can park or turn around. It's all appreciated.

I spent a couple of hours with my sister, Evelyn Dunn, who is in Norway Rehabilitation Center. She had lunch while I was there and her husband, Jim, came and spent some time also.

Much sympathy goes out to the family and friends of Sylvia Ring Knights, who died this past week. She'll be missed by her husband, Clyde, and family and friends.

Congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Angevine on their 65th wedding anniversary. May they have many more.

Congratulations to Keith Hadley and Julie Owens who were married recently.

Quote of the week: "I've learned that if you die broke, the timing was right."

West Paris

by Joyce Lamb

We have again lost most of the snow. It is tough on the ski areas and on the snow plowers. It helps the cost of maintaining our driveways. The temperature has been much warmer than usual and should help lower the oil consumption.

I hope some of the football fans are happy with the results of the big game. My TV is at present this Sunday evening off and quiet.

Beverly Stevens and I were in Oxford to view the movie "Memoirs of a Geisha" for it is the chosen book for the West Paris Library's discussion group on March 1. We enjoyed a quick lunch at Wendy's on the way home.

At the West Paris Universalist Church on Sunday, Feb. 12, Kay Hawkins will be the guest speaker at 9 a.m. Jim Burke is organist. A social coffee hour follows.

Cynthia Lamb in Plant City, Fla., is recovering well from treatment on her spine.

This week Beryl Bonney and I did not attempt a trip to Auburn for groceries, as the roads were icy in places at times. We needed to go to the bank in South Paris so got a few groceries at Oxford. I still miss our own bank in town.

Buffy found the bare, warm spot on the hot top in front of the garage door and sits there when waiting for me to let him into the house. It has been raining enough that he does not stay out too long.

East Bethel

by Nancy Mercer

Alder River Grange will have a regular meeting on Feb. 10 at Lynn Mason-Courtney's home at Sudbury Village, Apt. 7, with a 6 p.m. soup and potluck and the meeting at 7 p.m.

After the weekend rains, people should be careful, as there is now more ice than snow. Several people in the neighborhood have slipped and fallen recently.

Jarrod Crockett is now in Indiana getting pre-deployment training before leaving for Afghanistan the first of next month. It will be a one-year tour of duty for him.

I have been falling down on the job here — Jean Grover celebrated her birthday on Jan. 21, Rudi Honkala celebrated his birthday on Jan. 23 and Linc Fiske will celebrate his birthday on Feb. 12.

If you have news, give me a ring at 824-3350. Have a nice week. Winter may be back, as the Weather Channel says temps will be back to where they should be.

God Bless the Troops.

Albany

by Sheila Dyke

Greetings and hello from Albany Township.

The winter chill has finally arrived for Winter 2006 after all the warm weather we experienced during the beginning of the winter. Of course, it's almost the end of winter with spring beginning next month.

Church services start at 9:30 Sunday mornings.

Don't forget your Valentine on Tuesday.

Best wishes for a happy and safe week. God Bless and Keep.

Waterford

by Rockie Graham

The weather is a changing. One day it is warm and sunny, the next it is raining and then snowing. Not quite like February, but we'll take it. Not that we have much of a choice, but still in all, it is a mild winter and we know we'll pay sooner or later.

Waterford Library is offering computer tutorials. Call Carol at 583-4405 to find out dates and to register. Richard Beebe will be doing the teaching.

At the Library, also, the book club is meeting. On Feb. 22 at 10:30 they will discuss "Middlesex" by Jeffrey Eugenides. Again, call the library for more information.

Valentine's Day will soon be upon us. If ever there was a made-for-business holiday, that is it. Of course it is nice to receive cards and gifts from one you love or better still to give them. One year, in Portland, I sent cards to all my girlfriends that came from and were a fundraiser for the domestic violence project. That felt good. Not only did they all get something from someone who cared, but it raised money for a program that was well worth while. If REACH did that around here, I would do the same. So many women feel they are either missing out or somehow worthless if they don't get valentines, that it seems a great thing to do. It takes a "Hallmark" holiday and using it for good purposes.

Tasha has reverted to her old tricks. She does not stay at home. As a result, she is tied. Of course, that means I must walk her. That is good for me; I just need to be careful of the ice on the road. She has long nails so she doesn't notice.

VETS ON THE SLOPES—The first annual winter Veterans/No Boundaries program took place earlier this week at Maine Handicapped Skiing in Newry. The program provides recreational activities to any veteran with a physical disability who requires adaptive equipment or techniques to participate in sports. Lessons, equipment, lodging and meals were provided free of charge, thanks to donations from individuals, businesses and American Legion Posts in Maine. Veterans, primarily from VietNam, could choose among downhill and cross-country skiing, snowboarding, snowshoeing and dogsledding. Here vet Charlie Schena of Plymouth, Mass. gets ready to hit the trails with instructors Jim Vieira and John Stolecki. (Photo: A. Aloisio)

A Happy Birthday for last week's birthdays to Rosemary Hart, Mark Tempesta, Liz Tempesta, and Ashley Tempesta. We all have birthdays within a week of each other. All others who have February birthdays should wish themselves a happy birthday. I had a great party with just a few friends joining me at Kowloon's in Bethel for supper. It was a great time to see everyone and not at the transfer station.

Speaking of the transfer station, don't forget to see the attendants with all TVs and computer monitors. We do take them and will show you where to put them. State law requires that they be recycled, now. The Transfer Station Committee meets the third Tuesday this month, that is Tuesday, the 21st of February.

Now that it appears to have turned colder, watch those pipes and don't let them freeze. Watch those dogs, too. They don't always know when to come in out of the cold.

That is all for this week. Have a great week.

Mason

by Richard Grover

Boy, this winter has been a bad one for people logging in the woods. We haven't had the usual cold weather to freeze up the wet places to make it easier to get around with equipment. I've limited my logging to higher/drier land and within cable reach of the paved road; much of my logging roads that are usually firm this time of year are now waterlogged.

There is a big logging operation going on at the end of the Tyler Road on the other side of Pleasant River; their trucks have been stopping and blocking Elsie Aylward's driveway before daylight almost every morning lately while the drivers put on their tire chains. The clanging and banging regularly wakes her up; they stop again to take the chains off on the return trip. I'm determined to walk up that road to see what kind of quagmire they have created up there. It was bad enough during deer hunting! Among other things, the logging has screwed up the cross-country skiing on the Tyler Road, which is normally not used or plowed in winter.

tiye therapies to discuss ways to stay healthy and age well.

The first three in the series follow:

On Tuesday, Feb. 14, at 7 p.m. at West Parish Congregational Church basement, Church Street, Betsey Foster, MPH, will lead participants in the postures and exercises of "Qi Gong." This ancient Chinese discipline is an excellent method to develop strength and flexibility, increase energy, boost the immune system, clear stress and calm the mind.

On Sunday, March 26, at 3 p.m. at the West Parish Congregational Church, Garland Chapel, Church Street, Wendy Iseman, MPH, will do a presentation on "Asthma." Iseman has had twenty-one years' experience as a health educator and social worker with the American Lung Association of Brooklyn where she worked with adults with chronic lung disease. She is currently working for Maine Handicapped Skiing. Her workshop will be useful for those who struggle with asthma as well as their family members.

On Tuesday, April 18, from 4 to 5:15 p.m. at Telstar Regional High School, Kevin Pennell, BA, Cht Reika master, will present a workshop titled; "The Art of Meditation, Only a Breath Away." Pennell will explain meditation and discuss its purpose and benefits. He will introduce the basics of learning to quiet one's mind and body, the relaxation experience, stress reduction, and how increased concentration may be achieved. A question and answer period will follow.

All programs are free to WMSC members. Donations will be accepted at the door from nonmembers unless they join WMSC at the event. For more information, contact the chair person, Wendy Iseman, at 824-8610.

Intrepid Trekker Series
On three Sunday afternoons this winter, Western Mountains Senior College will delight the audience with presentations about unique travel experiences. The series, "Intrepid Trekkers," refers to those seniors who have traveled in various ways to many different places.

Both armchair travelers and intrepid trekkers, like the presenters, are sure to enjoy these presentations. They will learn about places they might like to explore and some different ways of traveling. All presentations will be held at the West Parish Congregational Church, Garland Chapel, Church Street.

On Feb. 12, at 2 p.m., Wendy Iseman will take participants to Yorkshire, England, land of dales and moors and home to the PBS series, "All Creatures Great and Small."

On Feb. 26, at 2 p.m., participants will visit Switzerland with Dean and Priscella Walker and Walter and Beth Brough. Besides showing the beauty of the Alps, they will describe what it's like to travel with "Untours," a travel company that does much of the planning for a leisurely trip.

On March 12, at 2 p.m., Bonnie Pooley and Mac Davis will describe what it's like to plan and lead canoe trips in Maine's beautiful remote lakes, and they will share some of their adventures.

Programs are free to members of Western Mountain Senior College. Donations will be accepted from nonmembers unless they join at the time of an event. For more information, call J. Cressy at 824-0508.

From

Charlotte Hobbs Memorial Library

The Charlotte Hobbs Memorial Library and the Lovell Historical Society are teaming up to offer three genealogy workshops taught by Kathy Bolduc Amoroso, genealogist and outreach coordinator for the Maine Memory Network.

The schedule is: Feb. 23 (snow date March 2), Introduction to Family History Research; March 9 (snow date March 16), Internet Genealogy; March 23 (snow date March 30), Immigrant Ancestors.

Classes take place at the library on Thursdays from 1 to 2:30 p.m. Because of costs associated with the program we will charge $10 per session or $25 for all three. Scholarships are available. Call the library at 925-3177 to sign up.

From

Gould Academy

The Gould Academy Performing Arts Series will present singer/pianist/song-writer Marcia Ball on Thursday, Feb. 16 at 7:30 p.m. in Bingham Auditorium on Church Street. Admission for the public is $6 adults and $4 for students.

Over the course of her three-decade career, Ball has earned a huge and intensely loyal following through critically acclaimed albums and continued non-stop touring. Ball joined Alligator Records in 2001 and released the critically acclaimed Presumed Innocent (the ninth album of her career), which took the W.C. Handy Blues Award for "Blues Album of the Year."

Don't miss this special musical event. For more information, call 824-3575.

Gould's winter drama production, "The Love for Three Oranges," will hit the stage for two nights only this Thursday and Saturday evening in Bingham Auditorium.

Imagine a three-ring circus. You sit, happily munching your popcorn, while watching a wacky clown perform a monologue in one ring, a tame elephant stand on a ball in another, and a lion jumping through a hoop in the third. Suddenly, a trapeze artist swings down right over your head. You keep munching your popcorn, excited for the surprises to keep on coming. Now, replace the circus with the winter play "The Love for Three Oranges."

Complete with clowns, surprising entrances, and wacky monologues, the play is a whimsical, loosely commedia dell'arte, circus-spirited tale of a young prince searching for love. Although we can't necessarily guarantee elephants balancing on rubber balls (although you never know!), we can guarantee a laugh or two during this exciting evening of theater.

"The Love for Three Oranges" runs Feb. 9 and 11 at 7:30 p.m. in Bingham Auditorium at Gould Academy. Tickets are free, and seating is first come first serve.

From

Bethel Girl Scout Troop 155

Hello from Troop 155. We have been hard at work on our latest badge, Cookie Connection.

We are currently selling Girl Scout cookies in our community. We have a couple of new flavors this year. Help support Girl Scouts by purchasing your cookies at our booth sale at the Bethel Foodliner the weekend of March 17 and the weekend of March 31. Help us reach our goal of 3,000 boxes sold.

We have just finished work on the Caring for Children badge. We have made healthy snacks and learned to recognize household dangers for small children. We wrapped up the activities by learning to "baby-proof" a house. We would like to thank Roberta Hunt and the children for being such great hosts.

Our "Christmas for a Family" Service project was a huge success. We raised a little over $400, and learned a lot about giving. Thank you again to everyone involved for your support.

We are currently collecting stuffed animals and teddy bears for our latest service project. We will be distributing them locally to police, fire, rescue, and even ski patrol. If you are interested in donating any lightly used stuffed animals, contact our troop at mtrriver@gwi.net.

From the Bethel Hist. Soc.

James Macgregor, chair of the Bethel Historical Society's Program Committee, has announced the schedule of events for 2006.

The program activities will commence Feb. 18 with the 33rd annual Heritage Day.

Beginning March 16, Society Director Stanley R. Howe will offer a multi-session course on "Maine in the Civil War," which will end on April 30.

On May 11, the society will feature an oral history night, which will focus on the 40th anniversary of the society's founding in 1966. Toward the end of the month (on May 27), there will be the annual Faye Taylor Memorial Art Show and the St. Never's Day Sale.

On June 8, Earle G. Shettleworth, Jr., the state historian and the director of the Maine Historic Preservation Commission, will present a lecture, "A Painter's Progress:

The Life, Work, and Travels of Harrison Bird Brown of Portland, Maine." Later that month (on June 17 and 18), there will be a house and garden tour sponsored by the society.

For July 4, the annual community picnic will be featured with a concert by the Portland Brass Quintet. Another brass band concert will be offered this year by the Yankee Brass Band on July 29.

As usual, Sudbury Canada Days will be held the second weekend in August (11-13 this year) with the annual Hall Memorial Lecture, 18th century re-enactors and much more. A feature this year will be a lecture and second edition book signing by Tom Hubka of the University of Wisconsin at Milwaukee on Sunday, Aug. 13 on "Maine's Connected Farm Buildings: The Uncommon Architecture of Common Farmers."

The annual meeting on Sept. 14 will feature a forty-year photographic retrospective, 1966-2006 on the society.

There will be a lecture on Oct. 12 by biographer James J. Kiepper on "Styles Bridges: Yankee Senator."

On Nov. 9, Kent Ryden, Ph.D., director, American and New England Studies at the University of Maine, will discuss, "Landscape and Figures: Nature and Culture in New England."

The annual "Christmas with the Masons" takes place Dec. 7 and the 9th annual New Year's Bethel on Dec. 31.

Another Happy Customer!

"When you live out of state and you hire a builder to construct a house hundreds of miles away trust has got to be a huge factor. We hired Francis Dumont of Maine Custom Builders and quite frankly never had to worry. The construction was completed on time without issues and the quality was above expectations." "It is seldom that when you deal with a builder that they actually stand by their work even after the warranty period is over. Francis Dumont of Maine Custom Builders is one of those rare builders!"

REAL ESTATE AND YOU
SUCH A DEAL!

Most sellers know that buyers are attracted to homes that are spotlessly clean, well-maintained and tastefully decorated. Sometimes the seller can't make the extra effort to prepare the home for showing. Some of our listings are being sold to settle estates or by someone who has been transferred unexpectedly and didn't have time to complete the necessary cosmetic repairs. Homes that need work are often exceptional values.

When a Realtor shows you a house that needs help, try to imagine how it would look with a new carpet, a fresh coat of paint and your furniture settled inside. Because the condition and overall appeal of a house have such an impact on the selling price, "fixer uppers" are often priced less than comparable homes. If the home is structurally sound and has updated systems, a small investment of "elbow grease" and paint could make it look fabulous.

For professional advice on all aspects of buying or selling real estate, contact Cindy Hiebert at Mahoosuc Realty, 207-824-2771
